On behalf of the 2023 Conference Planning Committee and the ISASH Board of Directors, it is my pleasure as President of ISASH to welcome you to the 2023 ISASH Conference in sunny Tampa Bay, Florida. We are thrilled to have you join us.

Our conference theme “The Sun Shines on it All: Sharing responsibility for agricultural health and safety” serves to remind all of us that regardless of where we live or our job title, we are all ultimately looking to protect those who feed, clothe and so much more. We as researchers, practitioners, healthcare providers, farmers, and the list goes on and on; we are all in this together.

Beyond our keynote, workshops, tours and concurrent sessions, we have many opportunities for members to get involved in our member driven organization. There are many standing committees and interest group meetings and for our success, we need you. Please consider attending these meetings as well as the ISASH Business meeting.

Thank you for joining us for this incredible opportunity to learn and share from some of our superstars. The committee responsible for putting this event together have outdone themselves. As president of our organization, I extend my sincerest gratitude to the crew for investing their energy and creativity to provide a top-notch event for us to enjoy.

Thank you again, and welcome!

As Florida’s Commissioner of Agriculture, it is my pleasure to welcome you to the Sunshine State for the 2023 International Society for Agriculture Safety and Health Conference.

Florida agriculture and related industries are the quiet, and often overlooked, giant of our economy. Through technology, innovation, and old-fashioned hard work, our farmers, ranchers, growers, fishermen, and more provide the safest, most abundant, and affordable food supply in the nation and the world. Agriculture is a part of our state’s history and Florida will continue to be a great place to grow today and in the future.

I thank you for all you do to protect the lives and livelihoods of agricultural producers, helping them stay safe and successful in a competitive and fast-paced environment. A special thanks to the University of Florida and the Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences for hosting this event.

To all involved, I extend my best wishes for a successful event and thank you for visiting the great state of Florida.

Wilton Simpson
Commissioner of Agriculture
Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services

Welcome to Florida and welcome to the 2023 International Society for Agricultural Safety and Health annual conference!

As Dean and Director of the Florida Cooperative Extension Service, I am gratified that this event is being hosted in our state. Agriculture is hard and hazardous work no matter where you live. But agricultural workers in Florida face several unique challenges. We have some of the nation’s highest daytime temperatures, UV indexes, and lightning-strike densities. The increasing spread of urban development into our state’s farmland makes transportation especially hazardous. Economic fluctuations due to hurricanes, crop diseases and invasive pests put an enormous strain on our producers and agricultural workers.

The people who put food on our tables and clothes on our backs deserve a safe and healthy work environment. That’s why UF/IFAS Extension is committed to advancing research and education in risk assessment and worker safety. We welcome this conference as an opportunity to join our colleagues from across the nation and globe in sharing innovative solutions for keeping agricultural workers safe and healthy in the field.

I hope that you’ll enjoy the Florida sunshine (with proper hydration and SPF protection, of course) and that this conference will be an informative and inspiring experience.

Dr. Andra Johnson
Office of Dean for Extension and Florida Cooperative Extension Service
University of Florida, IFAS

Greetings on behalf of the University of Florida, Agricultural and Biological Engineering Department. We are excited to welcome you and pleased to host the 2023 International Society for Agricultural Safety and Health Conference in Tampa, Florida.

I hope this conference provides meaningful opportunities for agricultural safety and health safety professionals to explore this critically important topic. I anticipate many new connections and opportunities to emerge from the conference activities.

I thank the Host Committee Chair, Dr. Serap Gorucu, and her conference planning team for all they have done to make this conference. They have done an outstanding job to create the space for advancing agricultural safety and health.

Enjoy the 2023 ISASH Conference and beautiful Tampa!

Kati Migliaccio
Professor & Chair, Agricultural and Biological Engineering
University of Florida

After Conference Networking & Hospitality at Host

Locations:

In lieu of the traditional ISASH hospitality suite, this year we encourage conference attendees to join us each evening on the hotel lawn for networking to connect with other attendees. There will be board games and grass games available, or you can sit back and enjoy the warm Florida evening!

Get Out and Explore!

All work and no play make for a dull day, so make sure to explore the nearby attractions!

Step outside the hotel to clear your mind and explore nature along the hotel property's 9.5-mile scenic bayside trail or take a relaxing walk through the mangroves on the boardwalk.

Enjoy waterfront dinner and drinks at Whisky Joe's or the Rusty Pelican just a short distance from the hotel.

For those wanting a little more action, check out Bay Breeze Paddle Adventure, located onsite at the hotel, for jet skis, kayaks, paddleboards, and more!

Craving even more action? Check out these other attractions: Florida Aquarium, Hyde Park Village, and the International Plaza.

Check with the registration desk for more information on these Tampa attractions!

Pre- Conference Professional Development Workshops

A Continuing Tragedy – Roadway Crashes with Slow-Moving Vehicles

Purpose: The purpose of this workshop is to develop intervention proposals to reduce roadway crashes involving farm equipment.

This workshop brings together agriculture health and safety professionals to review our current knowledge about the problem of roadway crashes involving farm equipment. The workshop participants will then evaluate the impact of past interventions and propose new ones to reduce this continuing problem on our rural roads.

Taking Telling the Story to the Next Level

Purpose: To share with others how to write their own farm incident stories with prevention messages.

Research has indicated that stories can improve health attitudes and outcomes. At this workshop, members of the Telling the Story Project team will provide attendees with a playbook for creating safety messaging through storytelling.

Value of ISASH Membership

Since 1949 ISASH has worked to be the voice of agriculture health and safety! We concentrate on safety issues in agricultural production around the world. A network of more than 200 people, ISASH members come from agricultural businesses, equipment manufacturers, government agencies, hospitals and healthcare clinics, universities, and other safety organizations.

An ISASH membership provides you opportunities to:

- LEARN about issues and educational opportunities available from others in the agricultural safety and health industry.
- NETWORK with other safety and health professionals from across the world throughout the year.

ISASH members have access to:

- ISASH MIGHTY NETWORK, an online member area to network with others, have topic discussions and brainstorm for research ideas and use existing research available to put into practice.
- DISCOUNTED CONFERENCE REGISTRATION

Discounted memberships and conference scholarships are available to support students and professionals from low and lower-middle-income countries.

Mission

ISASH is an organization dedicated to the professional development of agricultural safety and health professionals, providing national and international leadership in preventing agricultural injuries and illnesses to the agricultural community. ISASH provides opportunities for sharing information about research and intervention programs, improving professional skills and knowledge, networking and other supportive activities.

Purpose

This corporation is organized and shall be operated exclusively for educational and scientific purposes and in furtherance thereof and for no other purpose: To engage in or support scientific research in farm safety and in the public interest; to conduct training institutes for workers in agricultural safety and others interested in agricultural safety; and other activities similar in nature. The corporation shall not engage, other than as a substantial part of its activities which are not in themselves, in furtherance of its educational and scientific purposes.

Objectives

Provide professional development opportunities for its members, including:

- Annual meeting
- Professional development short courses
- Encouragement to publish articles in professional journals.
- Review and evaluation of proposed and existing safety and health related standards.
- Support and promotion of research in agricultural safety and agricultural accident analysis.
- Development of research in agricultural safety and agricultural accident analysis.
- Development of communications and the sharing of resources with other professional societies and organizations related to common agricultural concerns.

Issue Area Committee Meetings

All members in attendance, whether a Regular Member or a Student Member, shall have the right to make motions, vote, and discuss issues before the committee.

Standing Committee Meetings

Only standing committee members shall be allowed to make motions and vote on motions before any specific standing committee. Any ISASH Regular Member or Student Member in attendance may make comment or provide input to the standing committee membership regardless of membership classification.

At Any Business Meeting of the Society

As established in the bylaws, only Regular Members may make and vote on motions, but all members maintain the right to discuss any topic before the society.

Procedure for Resolutions

Resolutions can be proposed by the members during the committee meetings and recommended by the sponsoring committee at the annual business meeting or can be proposed by any Regular Member at the business meeting. In either instance, it is incumbent upon the proper(s) to work with the bylaws and resolutions committee to ensure in advance of action at the annual business meeting that the resolution is of the proper form and format. In general, that form and format have a "Be it therefore resolved" recommendation and action, which is preceded by one or more explanatory and justifying "Whereas" statements
